PHASE

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE,
COLLEGEVILLE,
INDIANA

*The late archbishop of Ft. Wayne,
The Most Reverend John F. Noll.
(R.I.P.)*

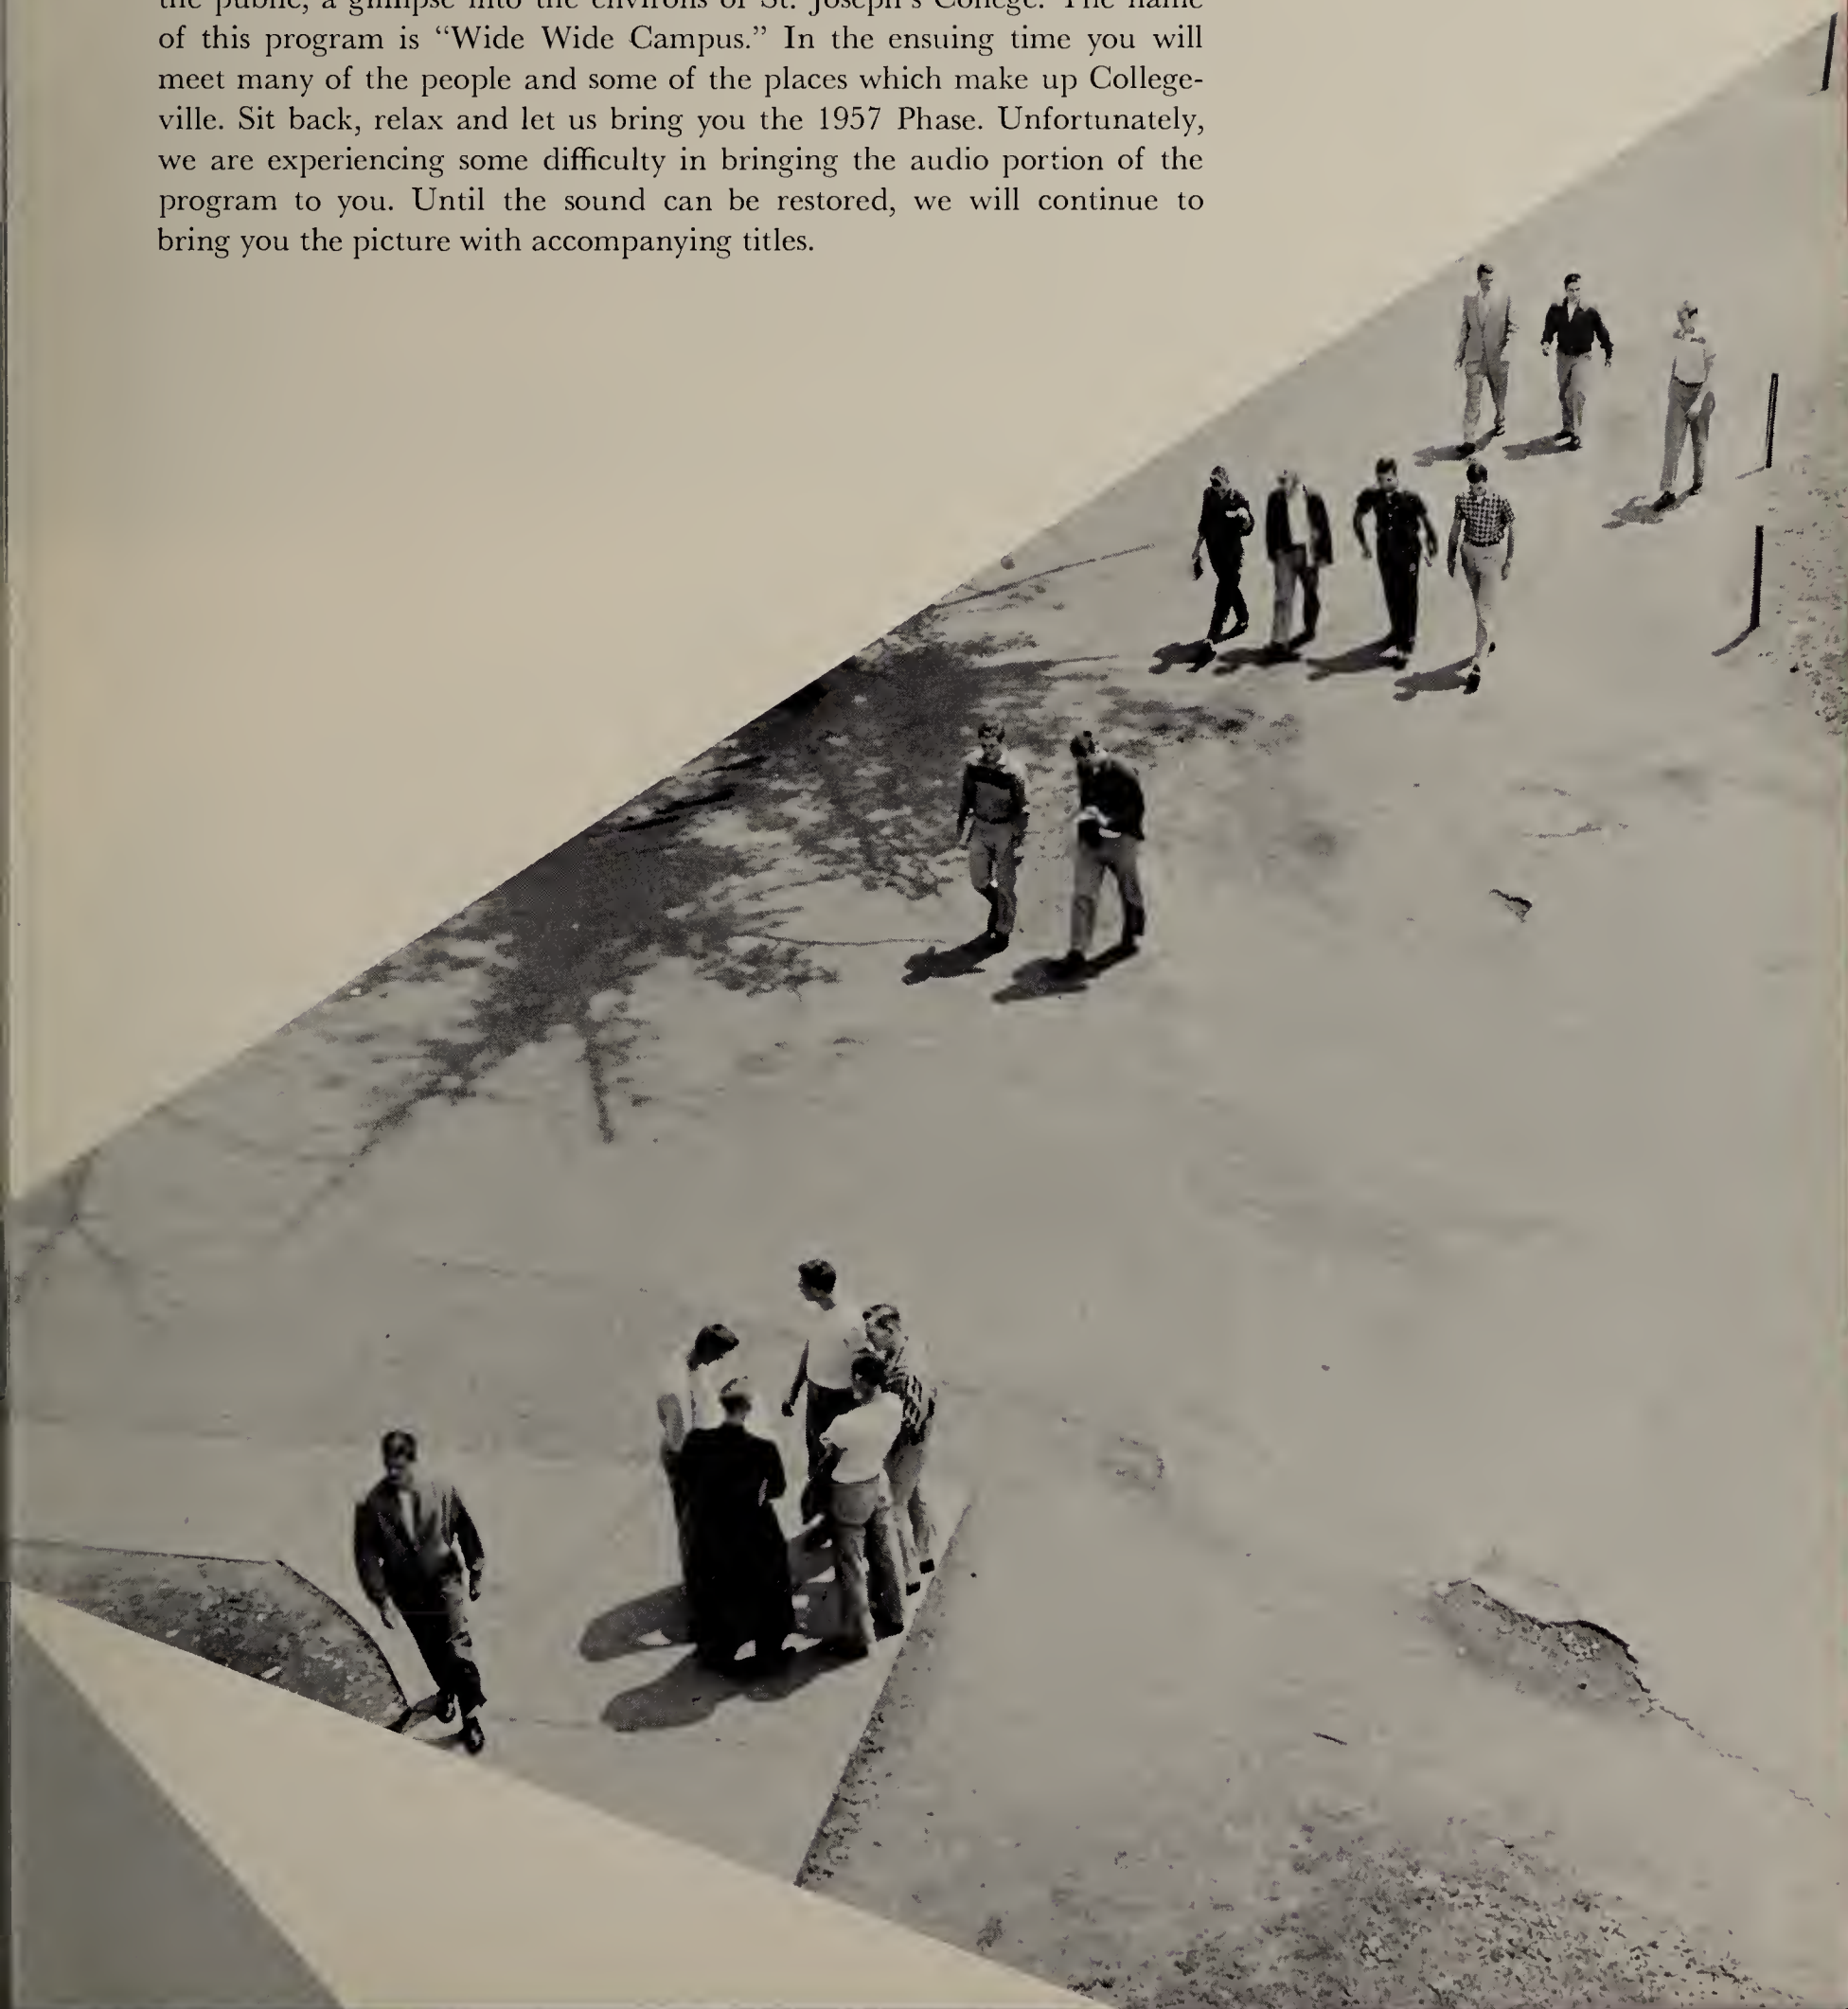

This book is dedicated to the memory of a very good friend of the Collegeville community, and to his successor in the episcopal see of Ft. Wayne. We, the citizens of that community feel very strongly the loss of our beloved friend. May this book be a tribute to his faith in us. And may his successor carry on the tradition of episcopal duties, so ably performed by Archbishop Noll.

*His Episcopal successor,
The Most Reverend Leo F. Pursley.*

WIDE WIDE CAMPUS

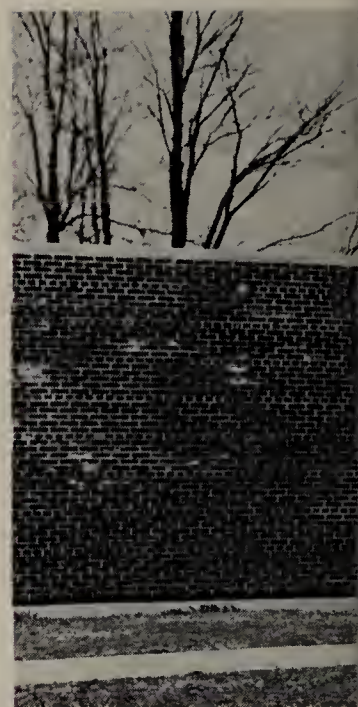

The St. Joseph Television Network takes pride in bringing to you, the public, a glimpse into the environs of St. Joseph's College. The name of this program is "Wide Wide Campus." In the ensuing time you will meet many of the people and some of the places which make up Collegeville. Sit back, relax and let us bring you the 1957 Phase. Unfortunately, we are experiencing some difficulty in bringing the audio portion of the program to you. Until the sound can be restored, we will continue to bring you the picture with accompanying titles.

PLACES

Among the buildings, perhaps the most hectic activity takes place in the Ad building. Here we find classroom, office, and living quarters.

At a solemn dedication in May of 1955, two new buildings became part of the campus scene. These residence halls have seen two years of upper-classmen leave to conquer the outside world.

The junior residence is named after the late Archbishop Noll. It is home to ninety-eight juniors and two prefects during the school year.

A similar number of seniors and prefects lay claim to Bennett Hall. Much of the social activity diminished here, with the addition of a TV set.

Not only people, but places make news. Most of these places you will recognize as playing an important part in any story of St. Joe. There are old familiar places for some, new for others. We can't show all of these, so we shall try to bring you the ones that hold the most memories. From 1890 to 1957, here are the buildings.

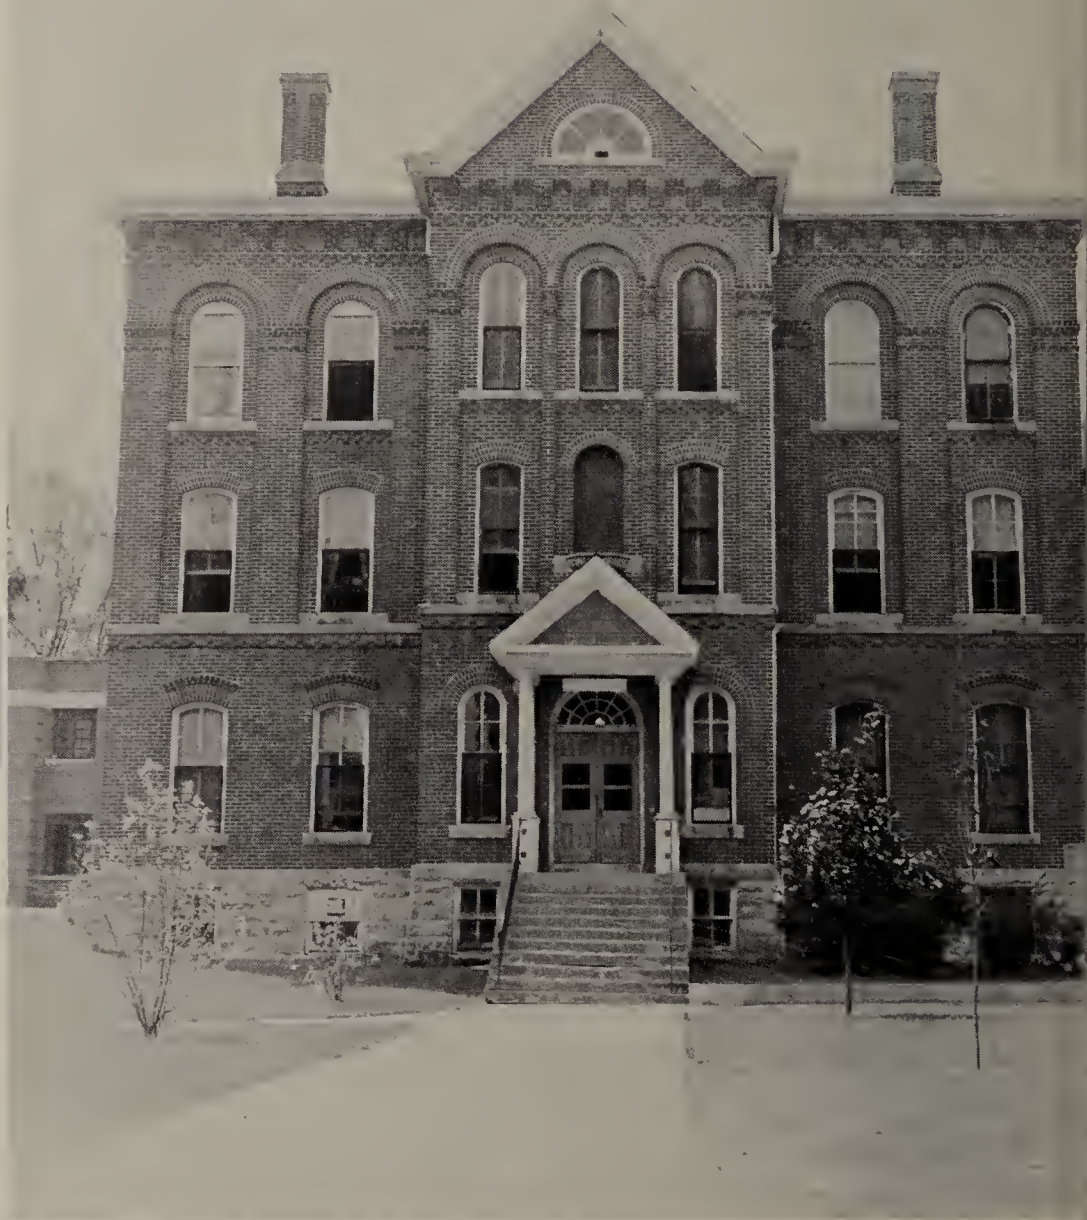

BOYS, BOOKS, AND BEARS.

Seifert's claim to fame, is that it is the only building split into wings. East and West combine to provide living quarters for one-hundred and fifty sophomores and four prefects.

St. Gaspar, founder of the Precious Blood priests, lends his name to this freshman hall. Sixty boarders are found on its three floors. The bookstore is located in its basement.

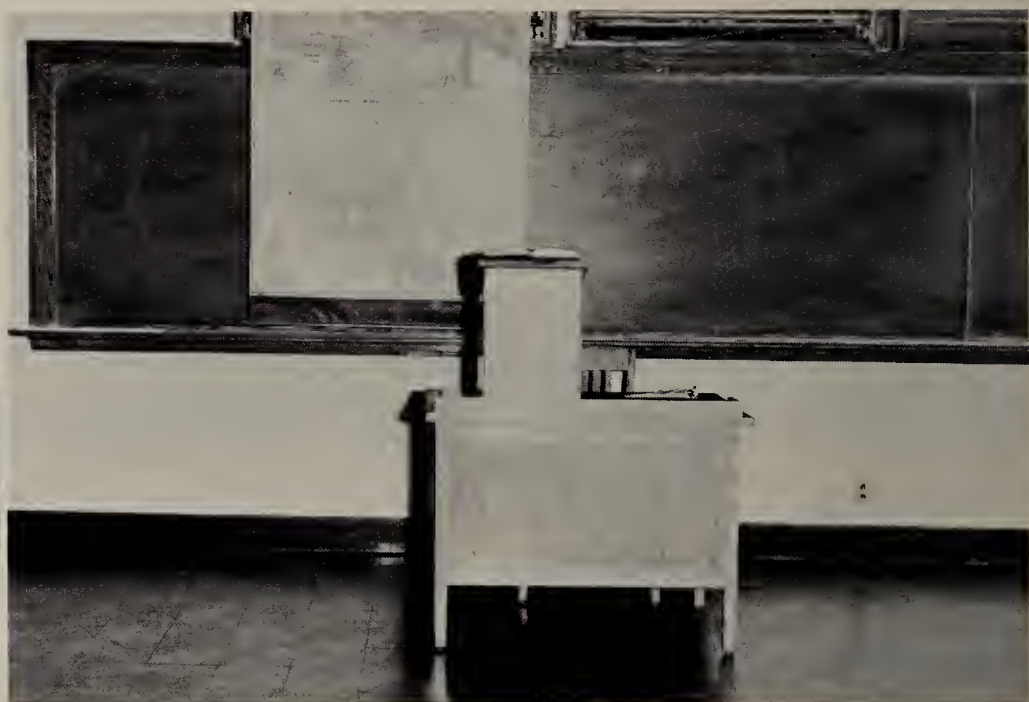

The oldest building on campus, Drexel Hall, is not on campus proper. One-hundred and ten freshmen wander across U.S. 53 to reach their rooms.

Merlini Hall, which was recently rechristened, played host to the sophomores. During the summer, the Chicago Bears roam its corridors.

IN PRODUCTION

The production crew for this spectacular numbers in the eighties. In previous programs, these experts have been responsible for 220 courses. Among their notable successes are "Principles of Biology," "Contemporary Philosophy," and the well known "Rhetoric and Composition." These are the experts, the writers, the producers, and the directors. In addition to these, there is a stage crew of behind-the-scenes workers who make this possible.

*The Most Rev. John G. Bennett,
Bishop of Lafayette, Indiana.*

*The Very Rev. Seraphin Oberhauser,
Provincial of Precious Blood.
President of College Board of Control.*

*The Very Rev. Raphael H. Gross,
President of St. Joseph's College.*

LABOR OF LOVE

Brothers are to be found in small numbers on the St. Joe campus. What they lack in numbers, they make up for in work totals. They can be found in the fields, in the classrooms, and almost anyplace making repairs. Theirs is the labor of love.

ACCORDING TO THE LAST INVENTORY.

BETTER PLACE THIS ONE IN THE CIRCULAR FILE.

HERE'S SOMEBODY WHO IS REALLY CLEANING UP.

1st ROW: Sr. Casilda, Sr. Aurea, Sr. Eutropia, Sr. Mary Anthony. 2nd ROW: Sr. Emeliana, Sr. Mary Joachim, Sr. Xavier, Sr. Jean Bernadette.

The nuns who live in the convent on the south end of campus are examples of dedication. Their day begins at a time when the rest of campus is still sleeping. They rise early to chapel devotions, this is just the start of the working day. Dusk finds them still busy at their kitchen chores.

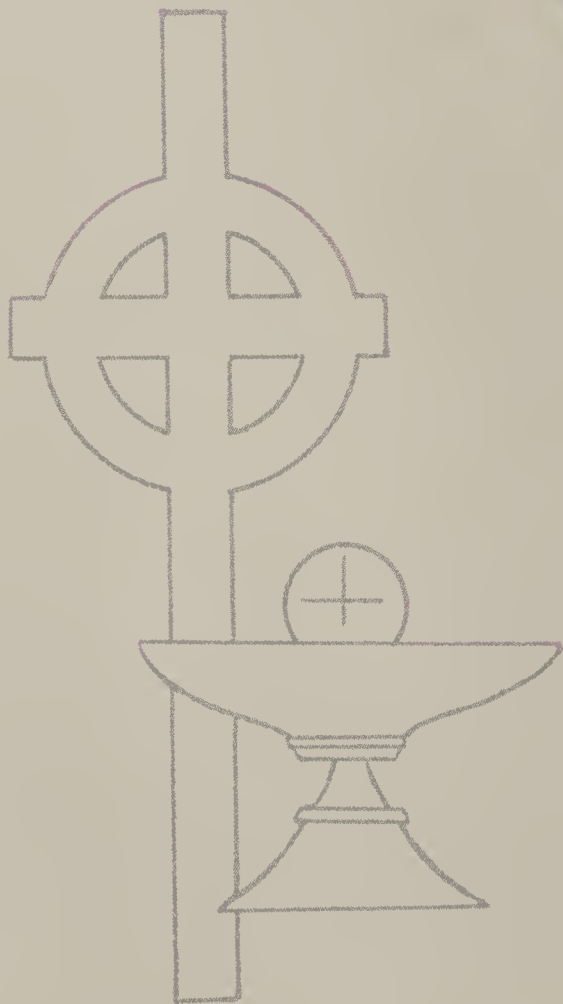

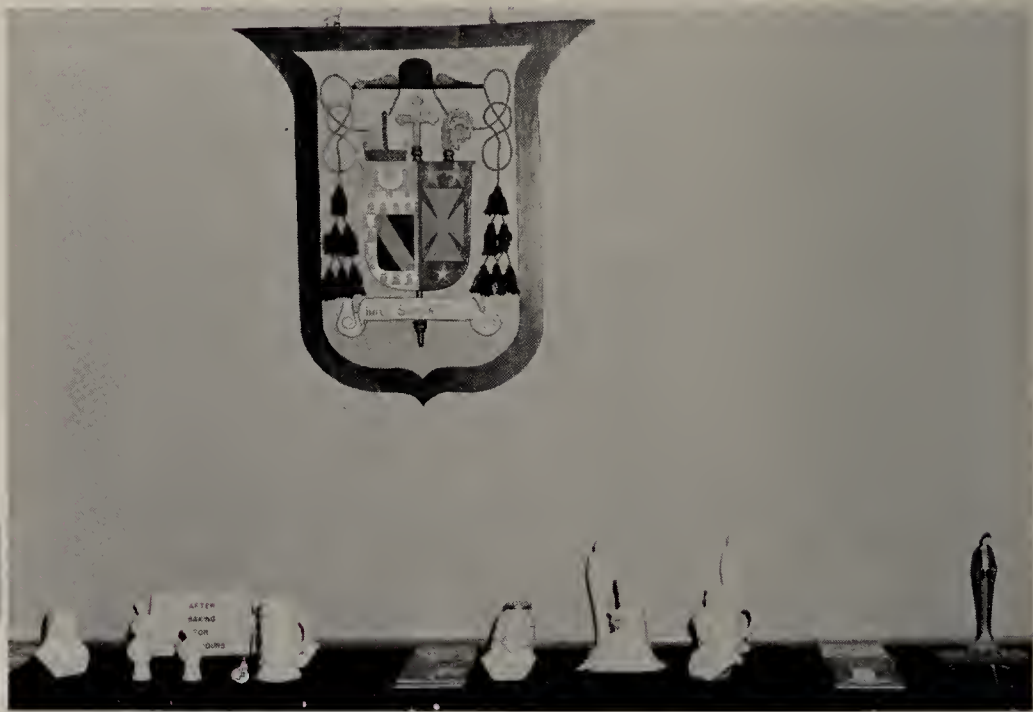

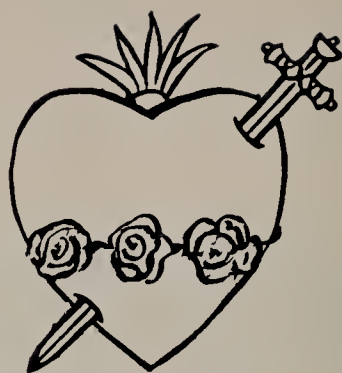

MORNING MASS BEFORE MORNING MEALS.

The slicing of cold cuts is an important part of meal preparations. Over 200 pounds of cold meats will be consumed at one sitting.

The sisters' day begins and ends with chapel devotions.

THE MAIN THEME

St. Joseph's College is a Catholic college; therefore, its primary purpose is Christian education. To that end, courses in religion and philosophy are graduation requirements. In addition, the sixty priests on campus offer 15,000 masses every year. The students, themselves, can attend nightly benediction and chapel services. Within the confessional, nearly 20,000 confessions are heard. All these, plus special masses and devotions make a CATHOLIC COLLEGE.

VITAL FORCE

MY LORD AND MY GOD

THOU ART DUST,
AND TO DUST . . .

Religion is the vital force in our lives. We share in the Holy Sacrifice. We are reminded of our own nature by the ritual of the ashes. But we are blessed by the sacrifice Christ made for us.

One of the stands at a fieldhouse mass, opening the school year.

Two silver jubilarians, Rev. Albert Wuest and Rev. Cletus Dirksen, on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their ordination.

Many of the special religious events at St. Joe are held in the field-house in order to provide enough room for the entire school. A portable altar makes all this possible.

Fr. Gross giving a Sunday sermon.

The newly consecrated Bishop Grutka of Gary, at the silver jubilee mass.

I will wash my hands . . .

The opening of the school year is heralded by an opening day mass, attended by faculty and student body.

The altar of St. Gaspar del Bufalo, founder of the Congregation of the Precious Blood, is located in the chapel.

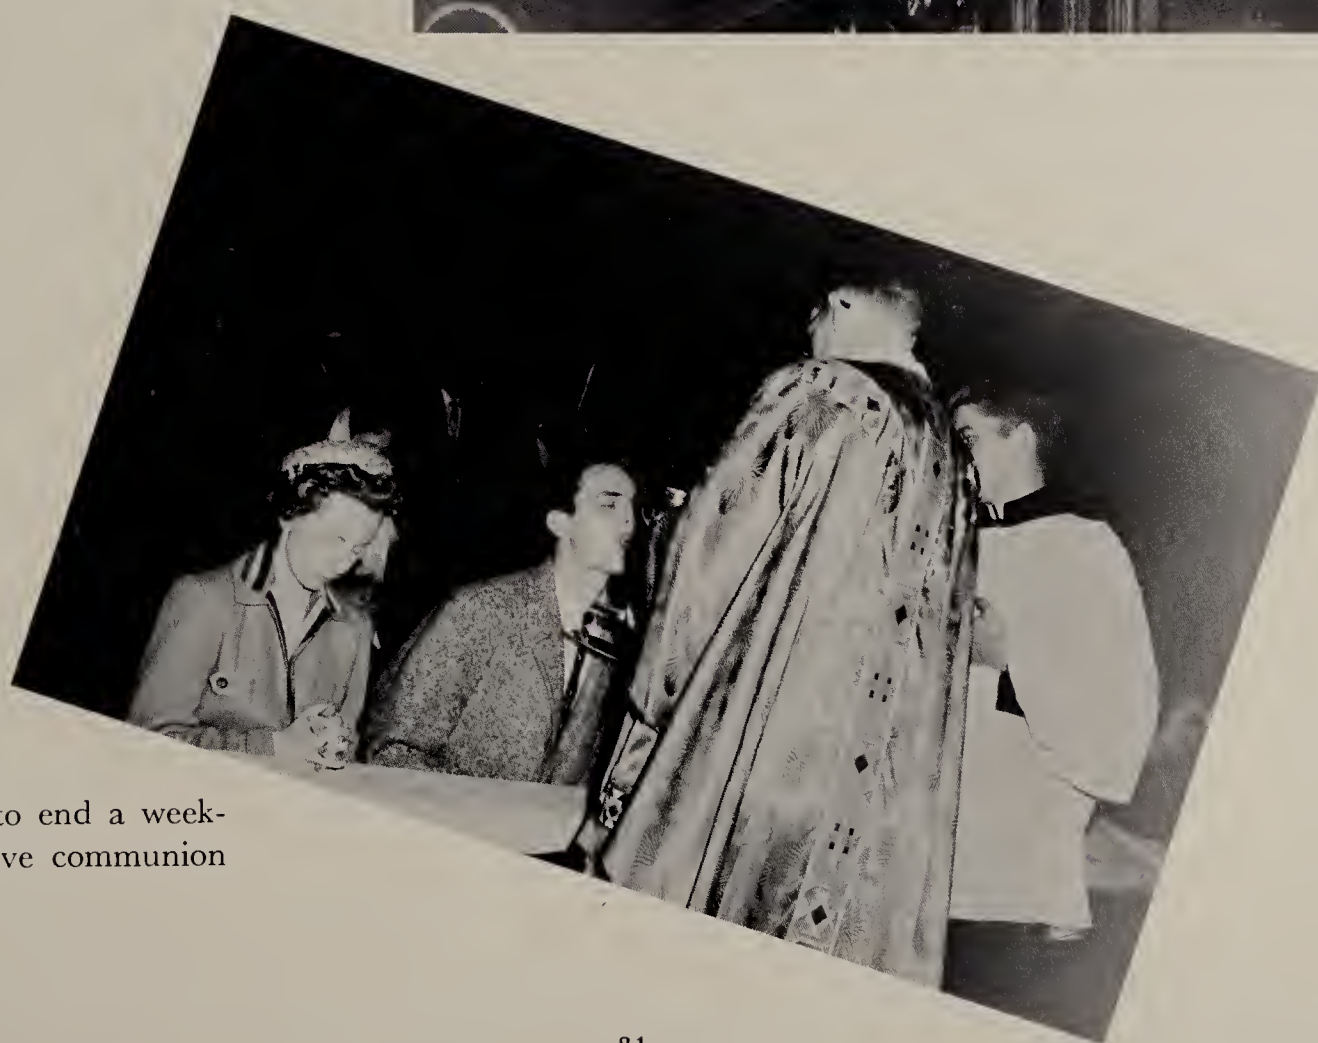

After attending mass on a rainy Sunday morning.

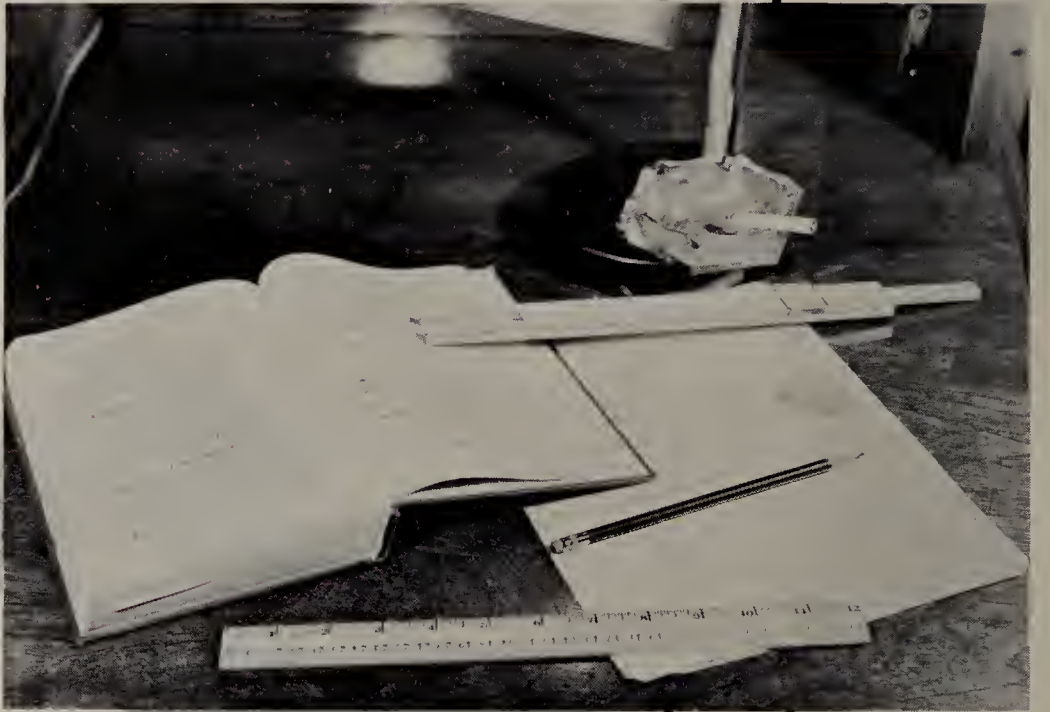

SUNDAY SERVICES

Fr. Heiman directing the seminarians in singing the eight o'clock Sunday mass.

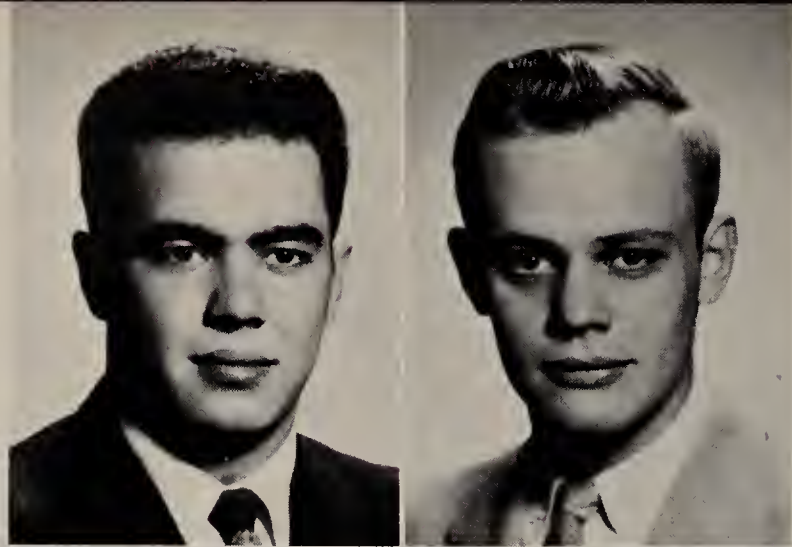

What better way to end a weekend, than to receive communion together?

PRESENTING THE CAST

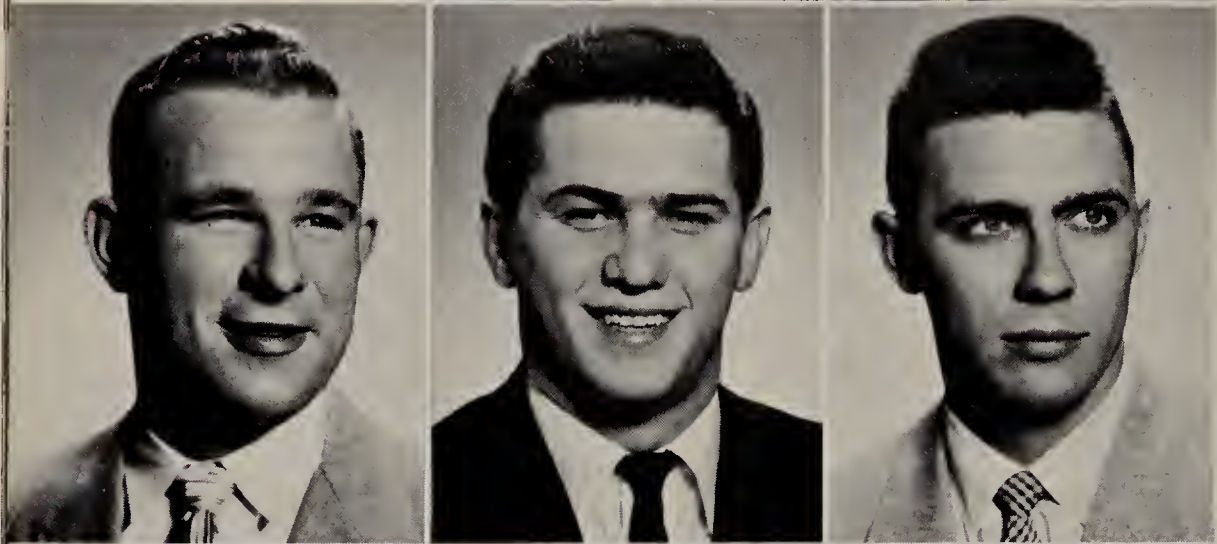

What would any program be without a cast? Our production may be termed a spectacular since the cast numbers close to 900. The stars of the show are the professionals who have survived their four-year apprenticeship. But there are many amateurs entering on their careers fresh from high school. Our productions are academic, not theatrical. On with the show.

NOT ALL STUDIES

A freshman can always participate in a pep rally.

When he gets to be a senior, he can join the Bennett TV Club. 1957 members, Ray Goberville, Bob Devlin, Fred Sierakowski, Ron Frey, Bill Swanston.

RELIGION

When it gets too hot, we just hold outdoor classes.

This is known as the "hard-sell" method of salesmanship.

SPORTS IN FOCUS

Our next stop is the athletic plant at St. Joe. Here are the football fields, home of two consecutive conference championship teams and this year national small college co-champions. Here is the fieldhouse, where fifteen thousand fans annually cheer the netmen. Here is the diamond, where the Puma nine holds sway. Scattered about are various intramural fields, tennis courts, and a nearby golf course. An answer to every athletic desire.

HAIL TO THE CHAMPS

The 1956 football season marked one of the most successful grid campaigns in St. Joe's history. At the helm of this most outstanding team was Bob Jauron, the man who piloted the Pumas to an 8—1 season record. This was a season that saw St. Joe gridgers roll up the three highest scores in the college's grid history, to give Collegeville its first undisputed ICC football crown. This was the team which literally stampeded through six Indiana Collegiate Conference games, rewriting the record book, setting fifteen new records while tying seven more, and placing five team members on the All-Conference team. This was the season which showed the Pumas to be the best small college defensive team in the country.

The memorable campaign was capped with St. Joe battling Montana State to a scoreless tie in the first annual NAIA Aluminum Bowl classic at Little Rock, Ark., to gain the title—National Co-Champions.

ALUMINUM BOWL

A golden football year at St. Joseph's was capped with the Pumas participating in the first annual NAIA Aluminum Bowl at Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 22, 1956. St. Joe battled Montana State to a scoreless tie in the mud-christened classic to gain the title "National Small College Co-Champions."

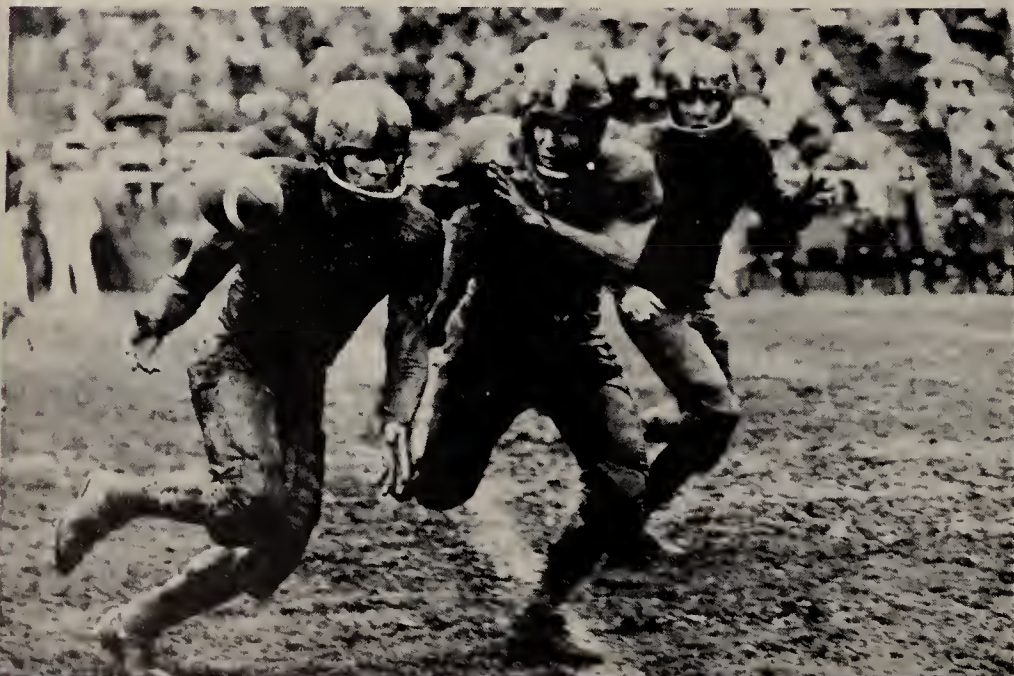

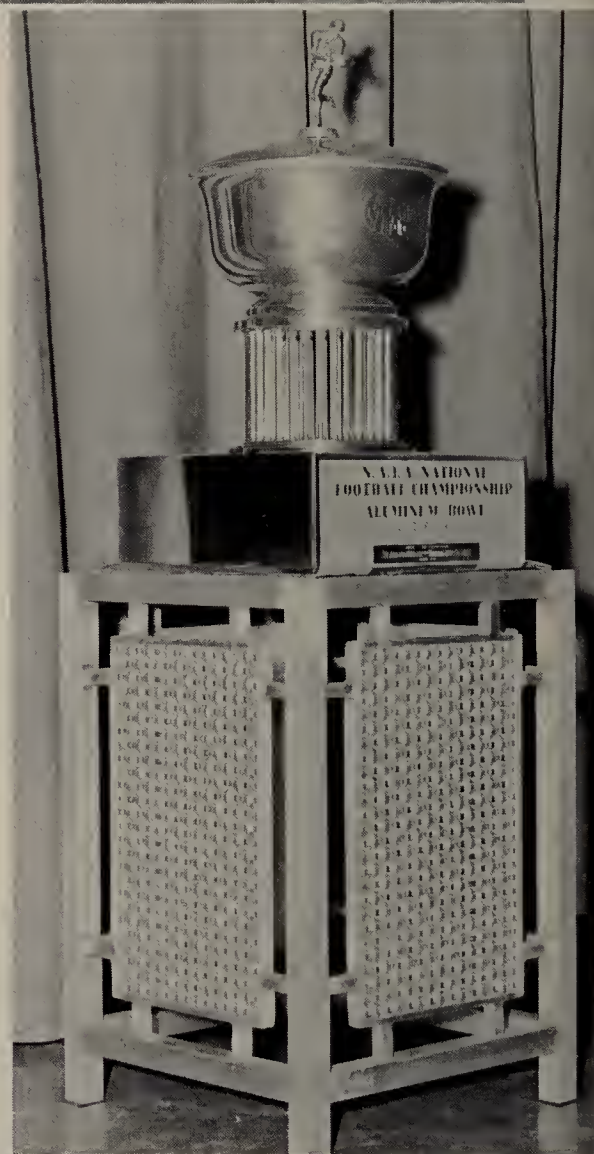

Highlighting the rain-soaked affair were the performances turned in by Ralph Tite, Mike Murphy, and Jerry Selinger. Tite masterfully handled the slippery pigskin. Murphy was the plow-horse of the afternoon—he carried the ball 26 times, not losing a yard, and dashed 35 yards to the Bobcat 15 for St. Joe's only serious scoring threat. Selinger, with a remarkable punting exhibition, consistently kept the Pumas out of trouble with lofty 40-yard boots.

ON THE HARDWOOD

The Pumas posted a 12-11 season record under Dale O'Connell despite a tough schedule. After an early season slump, they caught fire at Christmas time. They won the first annual Midwest Small Catholic College Tournament. From there, they went on to win 11 of their last 16, including upsets of Butler and Valpo.

Two top centers, Dan Fenker and Neil Reincke of Valpo, jump to open Valpo-St. Joe clash.

BIRDIES AND EAGLES

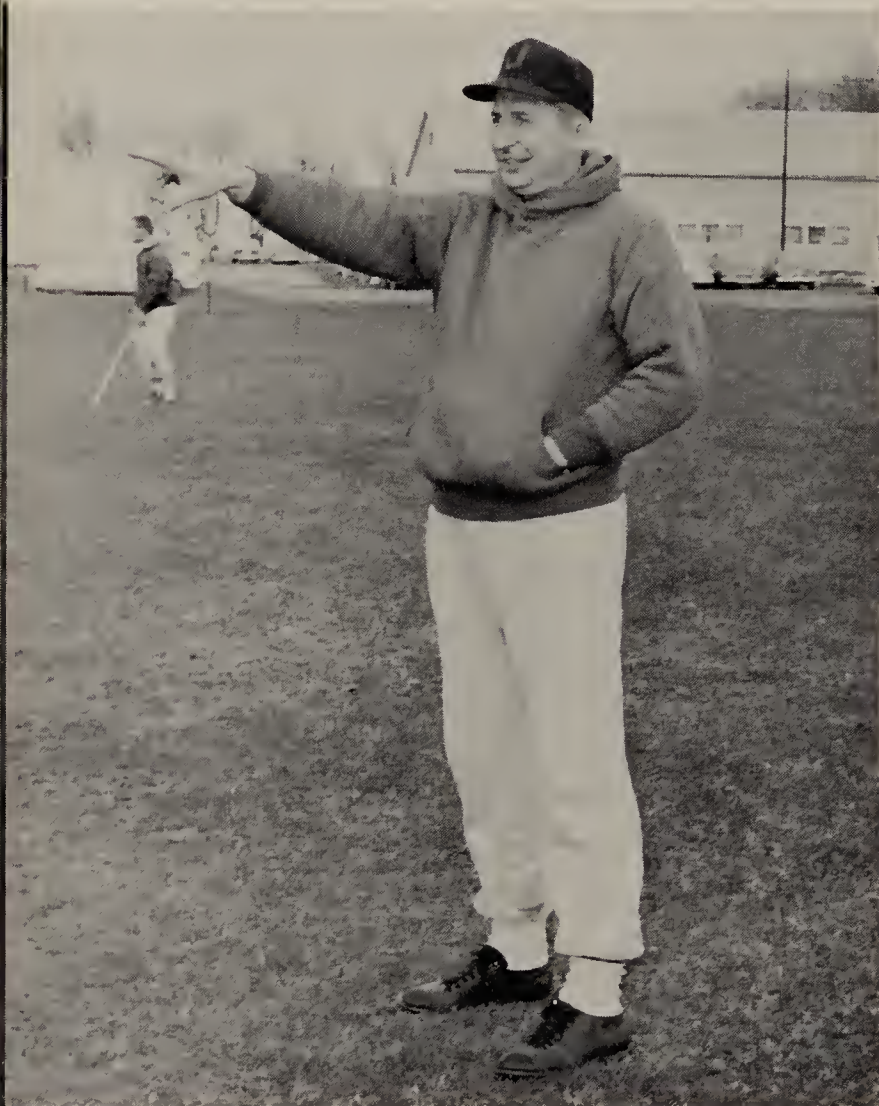

The St. Joe linksmen did not fare well in their 1957 encounters. They came out on the short end of six matches, and finished eighth in a field of twelve at the Little State Meet. The most consistent golfers on the squad were George Lux and Ron Keller, both of whom regularly scored in the low 80's. Poor spring weather hampered practice sessions. Fr. PLAY BALL!

Robert Shemky
Baseball Coach

The dismal 3-10 record turned in by the 1957 Puma diamond crew was certainly not a surprise to Coach Shemky. The problems were lack of depth, lack of experience, and lack of pitching.

The pitching mainstay was Greg Jancich, who was credited with all three wins. He struck out 77, in 57 innings he registered a 1.26 ERA. His 54 strikeouts set a new conference record.

The starting nine of '57 numbered seven sophomores, an indication of better things to come.

A VARIETY PROGRAM

Entertainment in all its forms is a source of diversion for the St. Joe student. Some of the diversions take shape as dances, concerts, and movies. All of these are attempts to meet the divergent interests of the Collegeville community. Concerts draw over 1500 spectators a year. Prom and homecoming dances provide for 600 couples. Even the week-end movies have an audience of 450 a week.

A brief rest between dances.

HOMECOMING

As in years past, the responsibility for the Homecoming dance falls on the sophomores. This year's class played host to the largest crowd to attend a St. Joe dance. Over 300 couples listened to the music of Bobby Christian. The setting was enhanced by the theme, "The Returning Prince."

For the first time, clubs were allowed to compete in the decorating contest. The club winner was the Veterans. The hall winner was Merlini.

A near-winner, Seifert's contribution.

PROM

The junior class sponsors the prom in honor of the graduating class. This year, they selected "Roman Holiday" as the theme. It required almost two months to construct the decorations for just one night. Featured were trees, a fountain and pool, and various other Roman effects.

The band was that of the famous Duke Ellington. The queen, Miss Judy Bogan, and her partner, Don Judy, are shown in one of the evening's waltzes.

It still costs money to go to a dance as Bill Swanston finds out.

The most essential part of a dance, the dancing.

SMALLER DANCES

Social weekends were not limited to Prom and Homecoming. The Inter-Club Committee sponsored Winter Frolics. The Student Council held a Mardi Gras and one before the prom. The chief features of these dances were combos, low cost, and held in the Rec Hall.

One of the combos, Specs Maynard and the Masters, appearing at the Winter Frolics.

THE REGINA-ST. MARK'S CONCERT.

AFRAID OF THE DARK.

STECHEH-HOROWITZ ON 88'S.

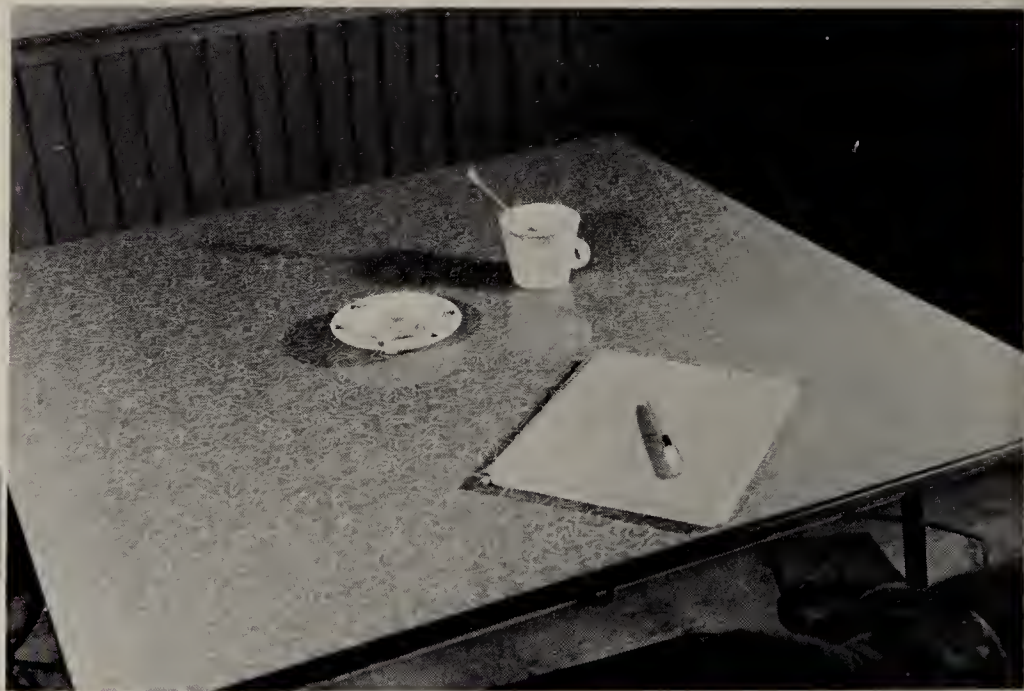

NO BUSINESS LIKE . . .

The Collegeville audience has a wide variety of tastes in music. The school itself sponsors a regular series of concerts, featuring famous musical performers. This year the series featured a piano duo, the Don Cossack chorus and dancers, and the Paris Ballet of Lycette Darsonval. The last regularly scheduled concert was that of pianist Paul Funk.

These sponsored concerts were supplemented by a number of student efforts. The glee club held spring and winter concerts. The glee clubs of St. Mark's school and Regina High School of Cincinnati made their annual trip. For the first time, a student talent show was staged. As an extra, a calypso-jazz concert was staged through the cooperation of Whiting High School. This was also the year that the band resumed their concert schedule.

SPECTACULARS

Hobbies? Interests? The answers to these questions may be found in the club program. An indication of shared interests, these are the organizations which bring together fellows from every part of the country with similar aims. They engage in projects benefitting the club, many of which enrich the community. They sponsor an annual Science day, provide a ride bureau, and act in plays. Every student is free to join or not to join.

DON BOSCO CLUB

The principal object of this club is to provide servers for daily mass. In order to stimulate membership, instructions in proper serving were given.

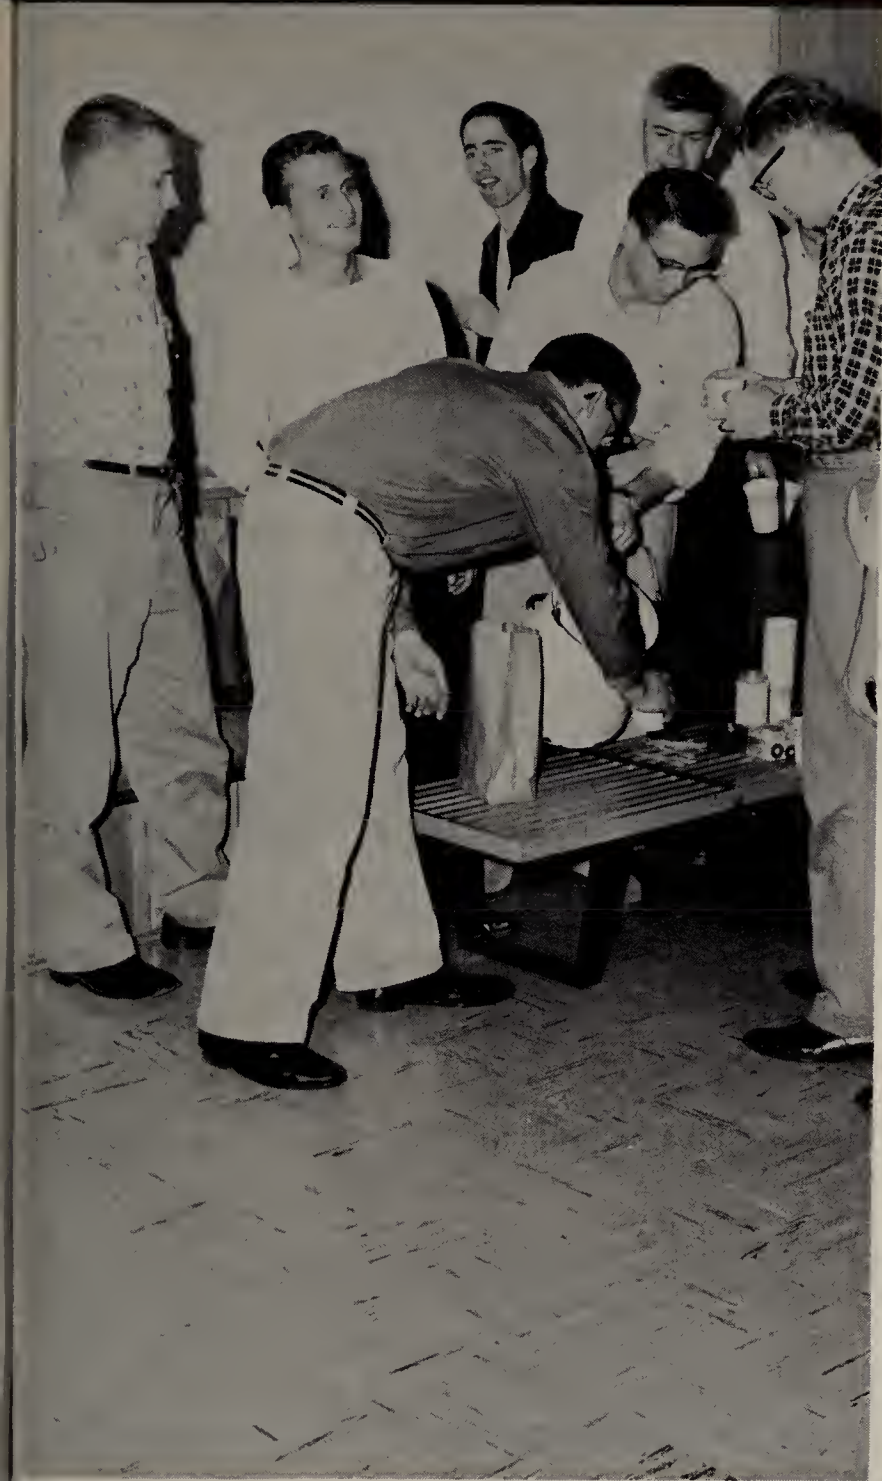

SANGUINIST CLUB

The Sanguinists are a Catholic Action cell movement. They form committees to spread their apostolate among the students.

Their most successful project has been the establishment of a ride bureau.

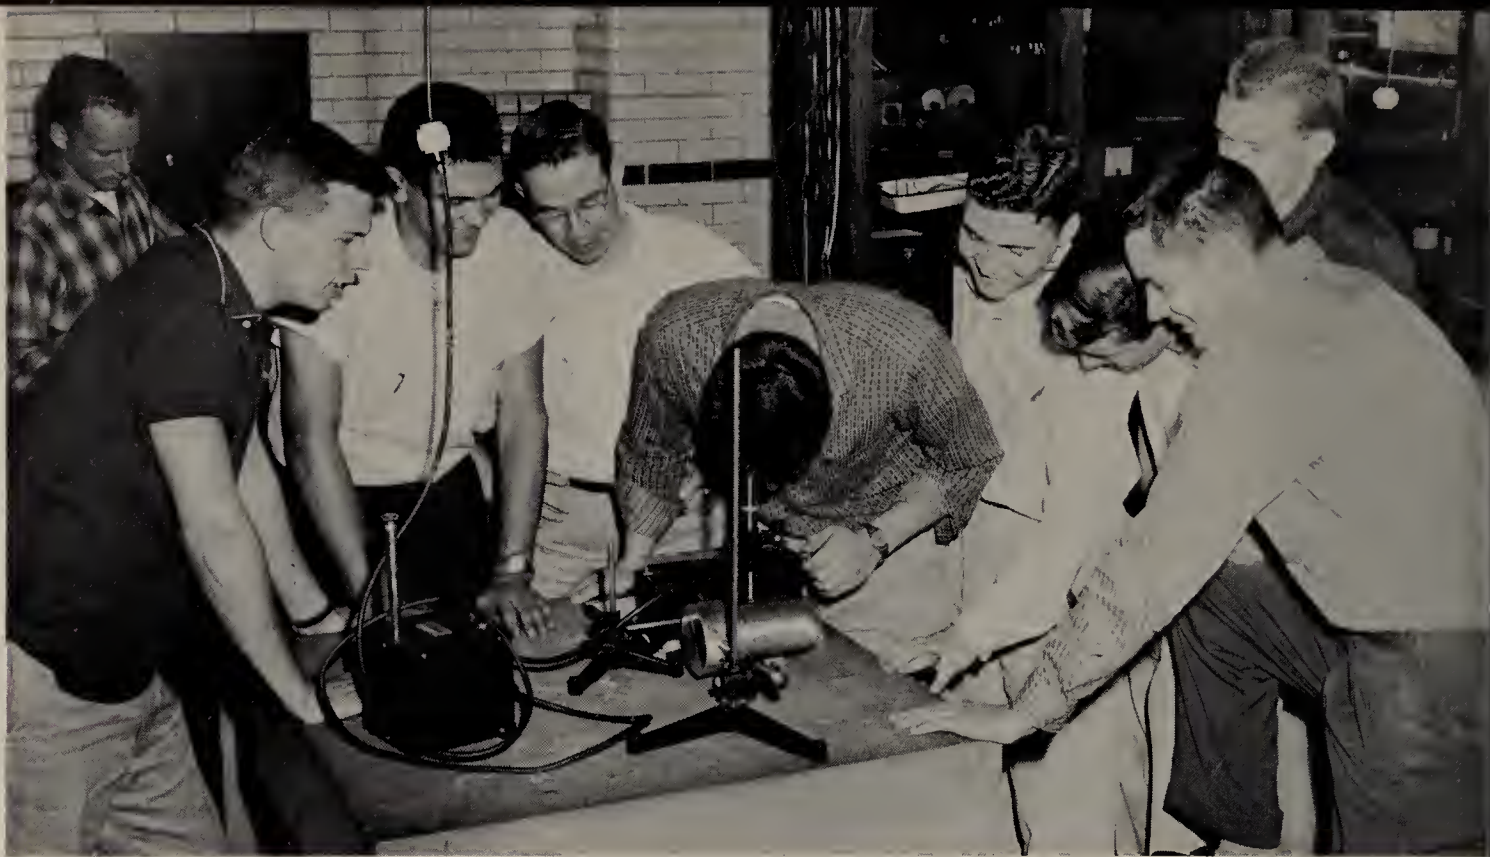

The Science clubs engage in an annual project known as Science Day. Not all of the preparations are made in the classroom, some are made over a cup of coffee.

Two months of preparation go into this project. A break every so often makes the work go faster.

BIOLOGY CLUB

One of the projects of the Biology club was a demonstration of the effects of bacteria. The club, aside from Science Day, engages in many projects such as field trips, lectures, and lab demonstrations.

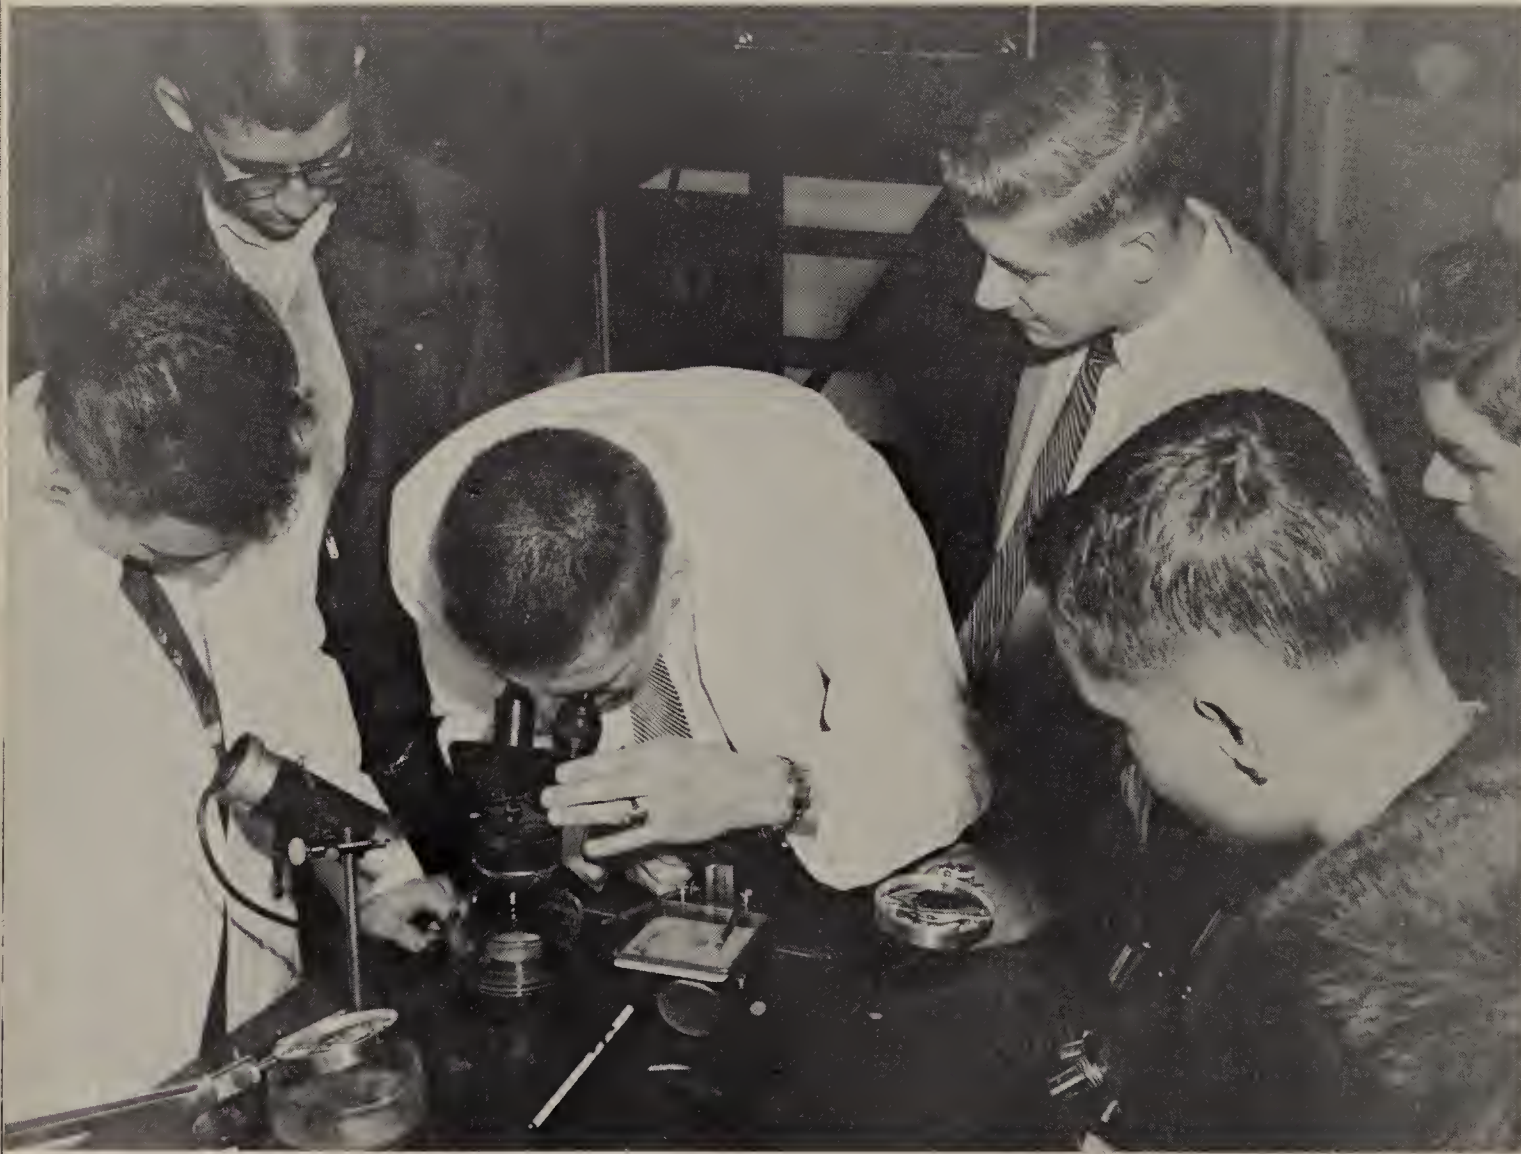

The honor society for science majors is the Albertus Magnus Society. Membership is limited to those science majors who maintain a 2.50 average. Members present papers within their own fields to the club at the monthly meetings.

ALBERTUS MAGNUS

The A.M.S. also functions as co-ordinating group on Science Day.

BIOLOGY

GEOLOGY

PHYSICS

The Geology Club consists of the entire geology department. Every major is a member. Their main work is the orientation of the student with geology in action. This year the group took an extensive trip through the southern states, visiting mines and oil fields.

GEOLOGY CLUB

HISTORY CLUB

This group is dedicated to the purpose of discussing current affairs. Its membership is small, but is not limited to members of the history department.

This year the group attended the Little United Nations Assembly, at Indiana University. They represented Sweden.

POLITICAL CLUBS

Election year meant the emergence of two political groups. Young Democrat and Young Republican groups formed. Election posters were placed around campus, and rallies were held to boost Ike and Adlai.

The climax of their efforts was an election based on the electoral college. Eisenhower won all but one of the residence halls.

DEBATING CLUB

Another newly formed group was the Debating Club. Teams were sent to various college tourneys in Indiana and Illinois.

The novice speakers were able to win over a dozen debates in inter-college competition.

RAILROAD CLUB

The San Jose Railroad has been taking form in the basement of Noll Hall. It is a club having a membership of twenty model railroad enthusiasts. They have been busy building a scenic route for the miniature diesels.

One of their projects was to provide taxi service for visitors to Science Day. They frequently held open house to demonstrate their equipment. They even sold stock.

MONOGRAM CLUB

This organization is the official lettermen's club. Each member must have earned a major letter from St. Joe. They serve as ushers in the chapel, and also for athletic events.

RIFLE CLUB

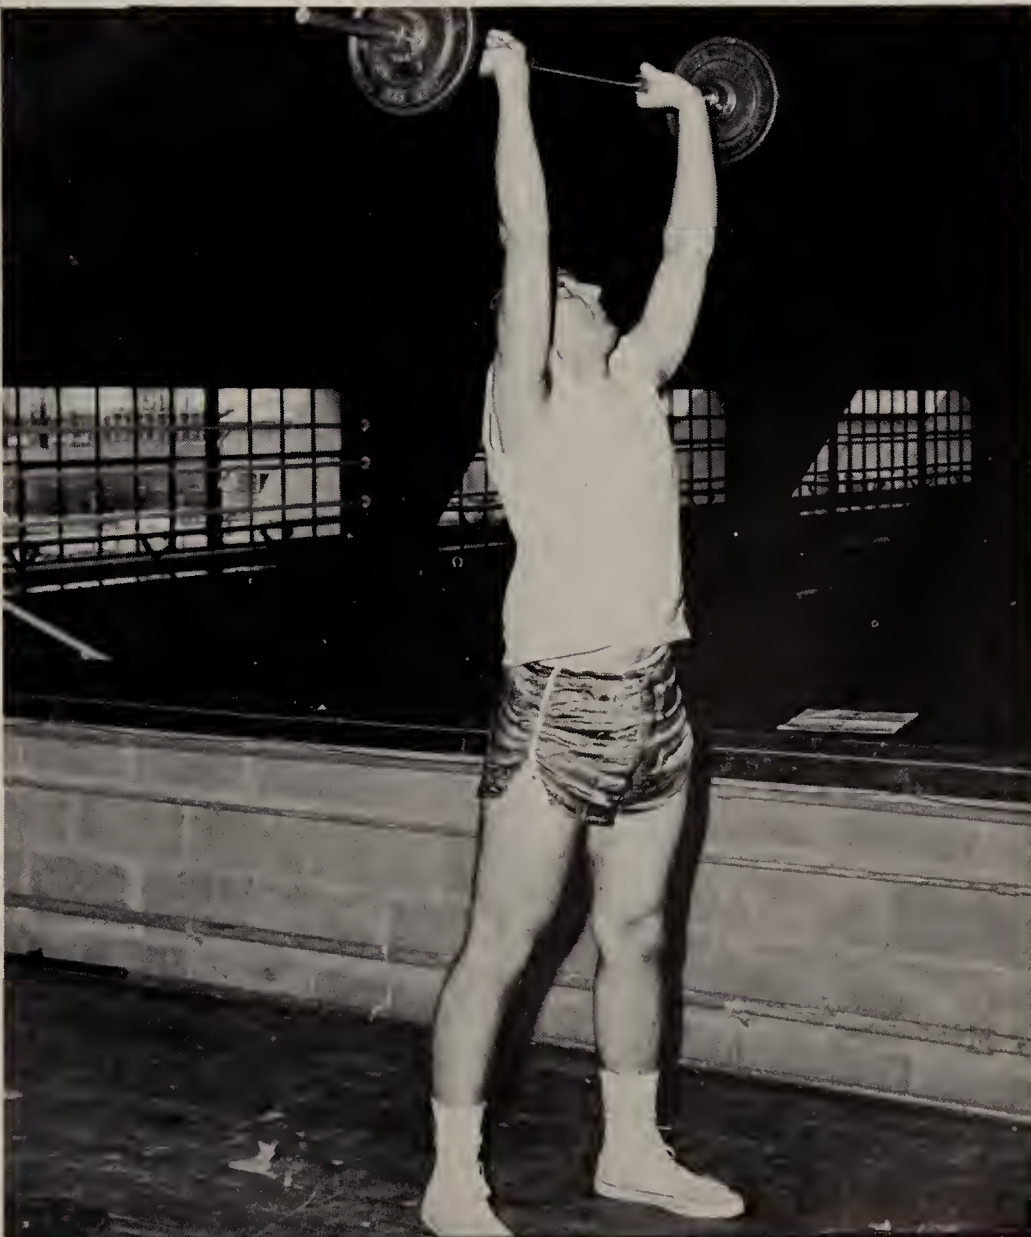

Not all of its activity was limited to larger weapons. Many of the newer members preferred pistols. The spring meet had over half the entries in pistol shooting.

In its second year of existence, the Rifle Club affiliated itself with the National Rifle Association. Its members erected a rifle range on the western end of the college property.

WEIGHTLIFTERS

The newest club on campus is composed of thirty fellows interested in the sport of weightlifting. They pooled their own equipment in order to obtain a variety. The club is now using the field-house as headquarters.

PHASE

Photography is the essential of a yearbook. Picturertaking begins in September and continues for the entire year. All of the photographs are printed in the college photo lab.

The advertisers and patrons found in this book are carefully checked for accuracy by the business managers.

Every page in the book requires separate layout, the sports section needs adjustment.

Business manager, editor, and photographer meet to thresh out problems on the ad section.

The Publications Building is the home of all campus publications. Here are located the offices of Phase, Stuff, and Measure.

MEASURE

Measure, the outlet for literary talents, makes its appearance twice each year. A small staff is responsible for both editions. Especially important are conferences between editor and artist over cover designs and illustrations.

The main work falls upon the staff who must write the stories, copy-read, and distribute 2000 copies. All in a year's work.

STUFF

The sports section of a newspaper is the most widely read section. Stuff has a reporter present at every school sports event. Intramurals are covered by a special columnist. League standings are followed in the News Bureau.

Every paper is partially supported by its advertising. Stuff is no exception. The editor and the business managers meet to discuss coverage.

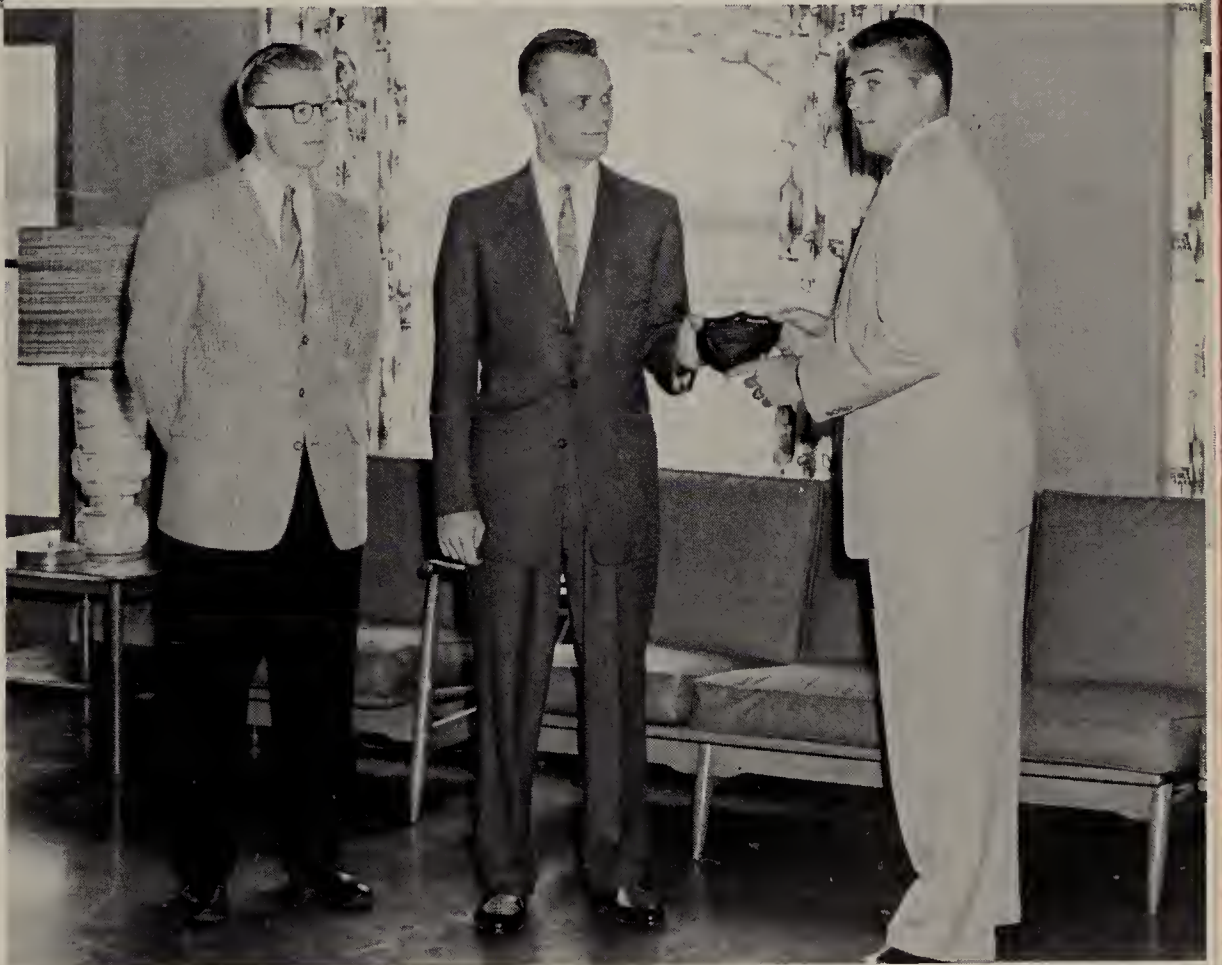

Layout is one of the most necessary and least appreciated jobs. Stories must be tailored to fit space, pictures must be cropped, and headlines determined.

COMMERCE CLUB

The Commerce Club is "principally aimed at majors in Business Administration, Marketing, and Accounting. The membership is in the seventies and is by no means confined to these majors. An acquaintance with the business world is gained by field trips to industrial centers and through guest speakers. This particular speaker was from the National Association of Manufacturers.

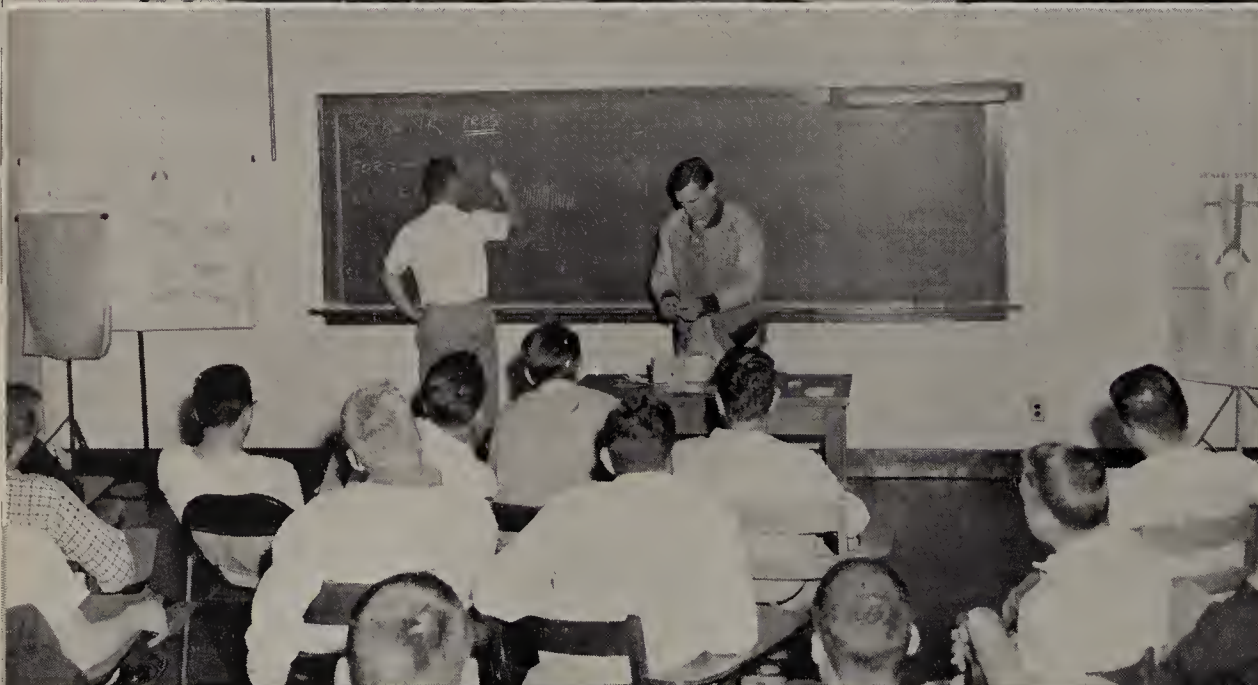

Each year the club awards to its outstanding member, the Gordon Memorial Award. This year's plaque was given to the club president, Bernard Balas. Election and nominations are secret ballot.

St. Joe has four clubs whose chief functions are social. The meetings are held on a democratic basis and members are entitled to express their own opinions. Here the Lake County Club is voting on a dance suggestion.

SOCIAL CLUBS

They select and elect their own officers. The Chicago Club is in the process of selecting a new president.

Once the new officers take their positions, plans for the year must be made. The three area clubs hold dances for their members. The Fort Wayne officers decide on a location.

In order to keep themselves solvent, the clubs gather dues. The Vets Club held a bingo to further aid themselves.

1957 was rejuvenation year for the college band. Under the direction of Mr. Qubeck, new uniforms were acquired and a concert schedule was met.

BAND

Mr. Bohumir Kryl, the renowned conductor, wielded the baton at the spring concert.

Parents Day found the band giving an outdoor concert for the visitors.

The Columbian players presented two one-act plays during the Lenten season. "The Glittering Gate" was a fantasy of two thieves after death.

The second play "The Other Apostle" was a religious drama. It went on to win three awards at the Indiana Catholic Play Festival.

ON STAGE

For every hour on the stage, forty hours are spent in rehearsal. Timing must be perfected, especially in fight scenes.

The dramatic effect is achieved in "Twelve Angry Men."

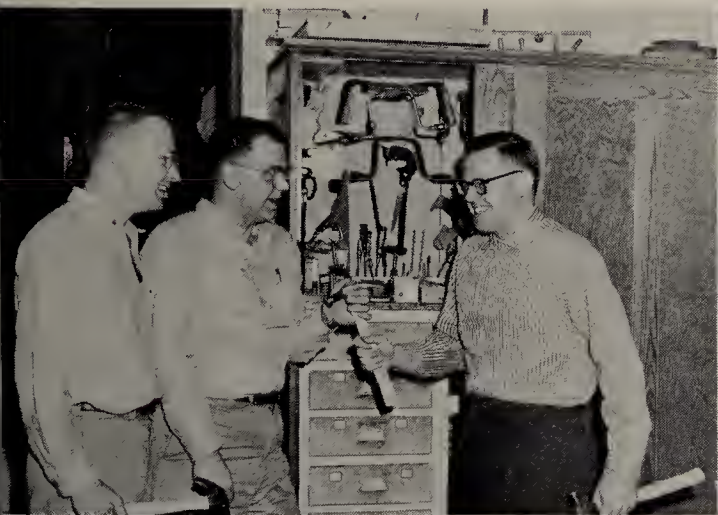

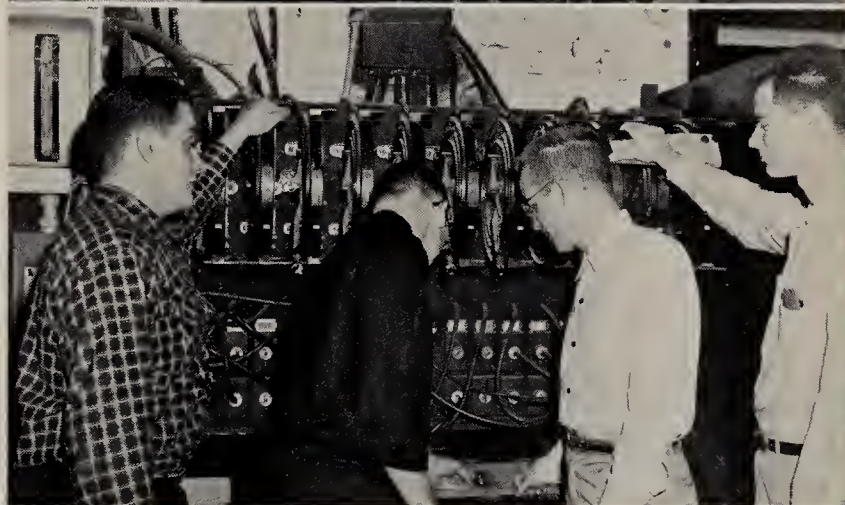

"Twelve Angry Men" had a run of seven performances. It was played in Rensselaer and Whiting, Indiana.

An important part is costuming. Lighting is done by the stage crew. Most of the Columbian Players are stagehands rather than actors.

The vital evidence.

arrange last-minute details.

The combination results in a play.

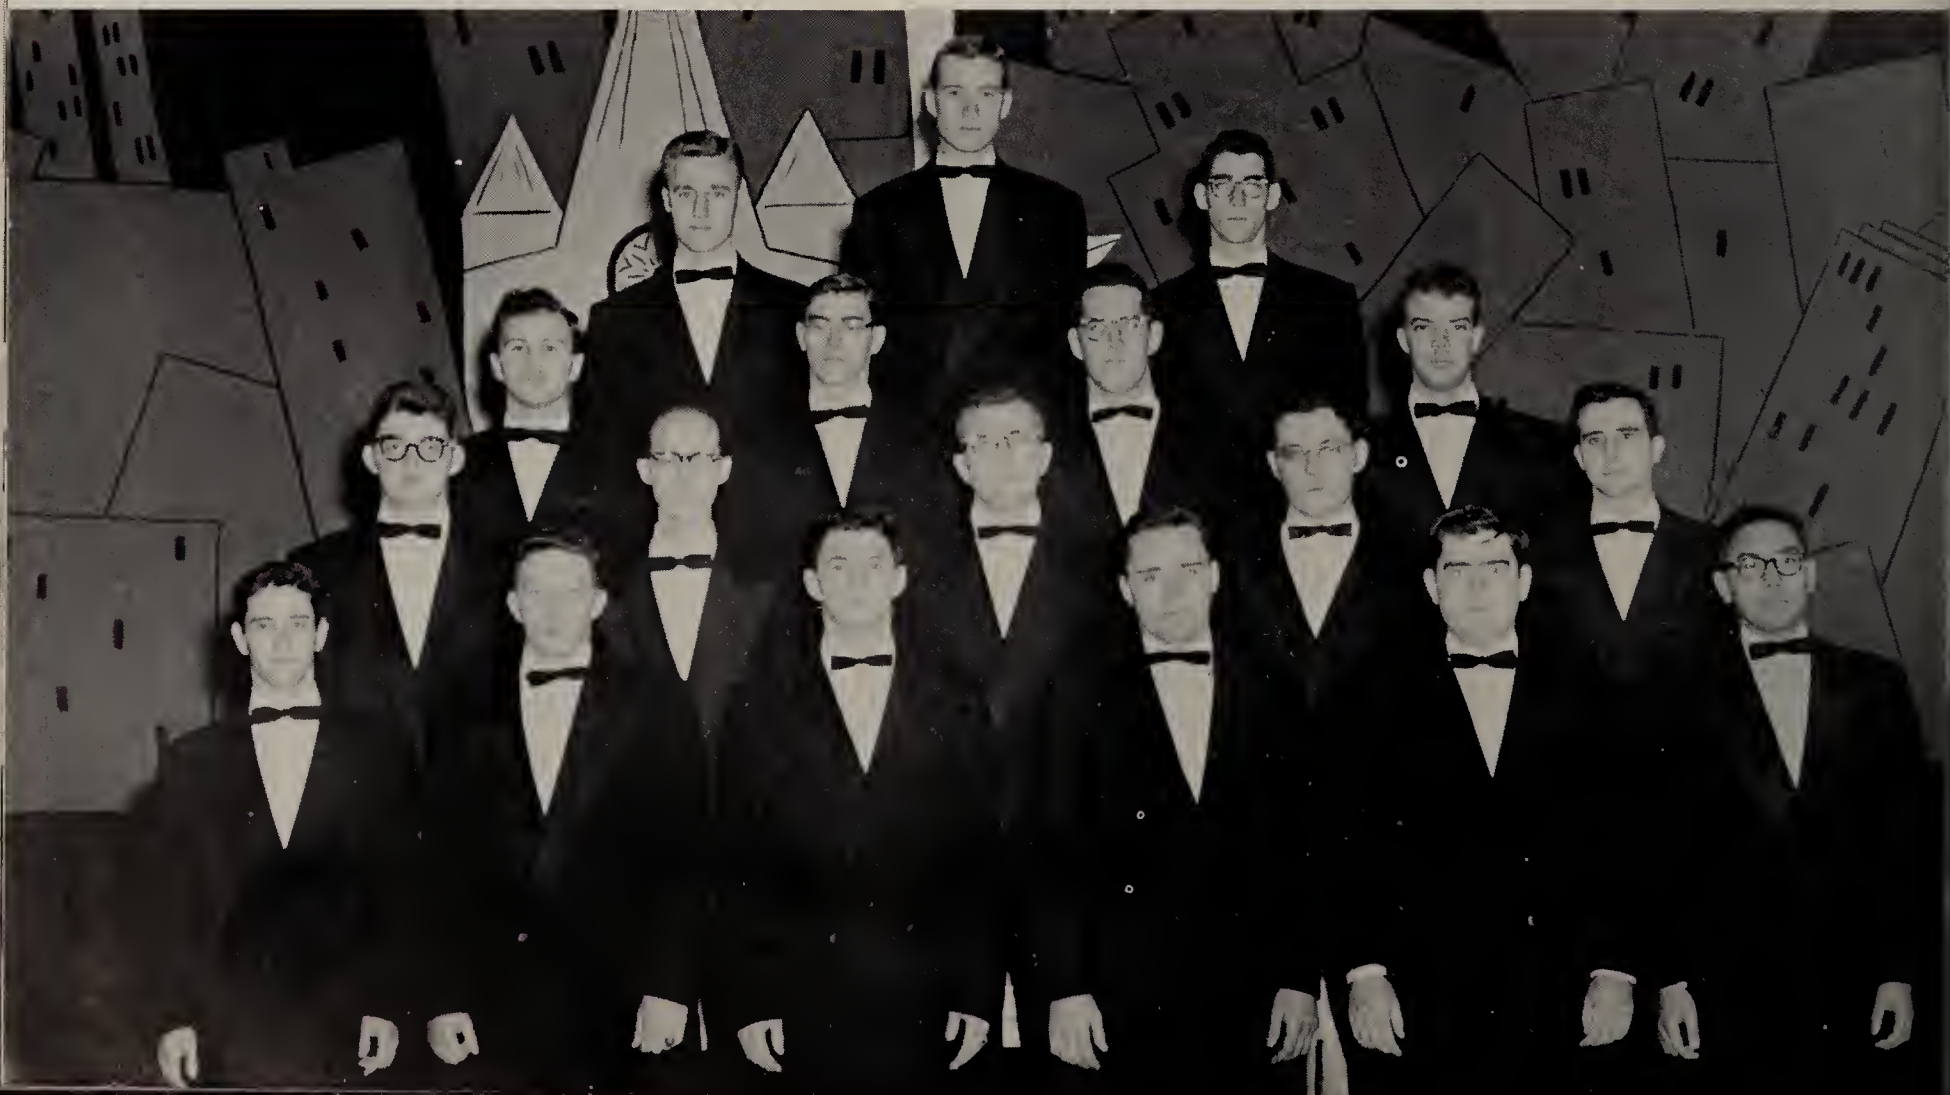

GLEE CLUB

The glee club is the most active group on campus. Their concert schedule necessitates weekly practices the year long.

No doubt about it, Fr. Heiman is the hardest worker in the club. He must arrange and conduct five practices a week, plus the concert schedule.

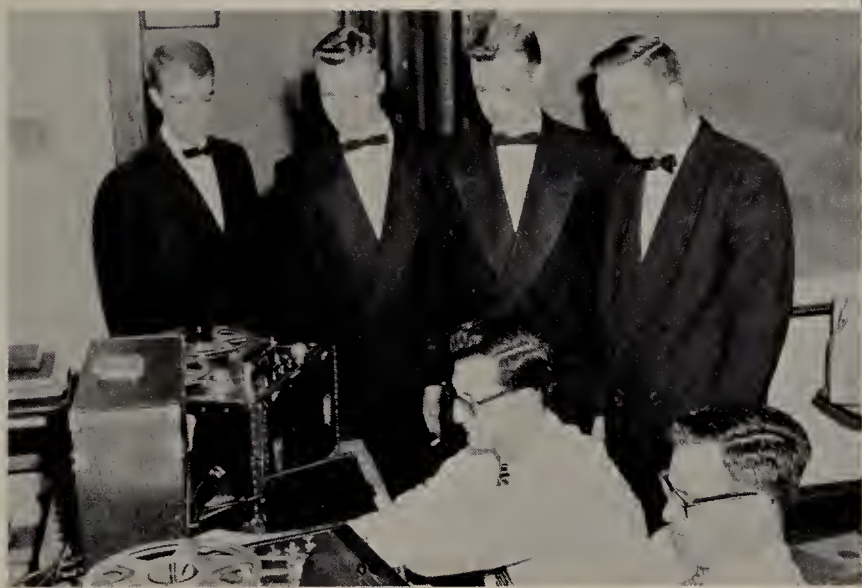

These men, selected from the glee club membership because of their finer voices, compose the Singing Seventeen. They have sung in concerts throughout the area and are the featured vocal group at all glee club concerts.

ACROSS COUNTRY

The glee club besides numerous local engagements, made two tours in Missouri. All these trips made rehearsal time precious.

The glee club also recorded many of their concert songs in a long-play album.

The finished product is this group of sixty voices. They appeared three times in campus performances. Sang with four girls' schools, and gave almost two dozen other concerts.

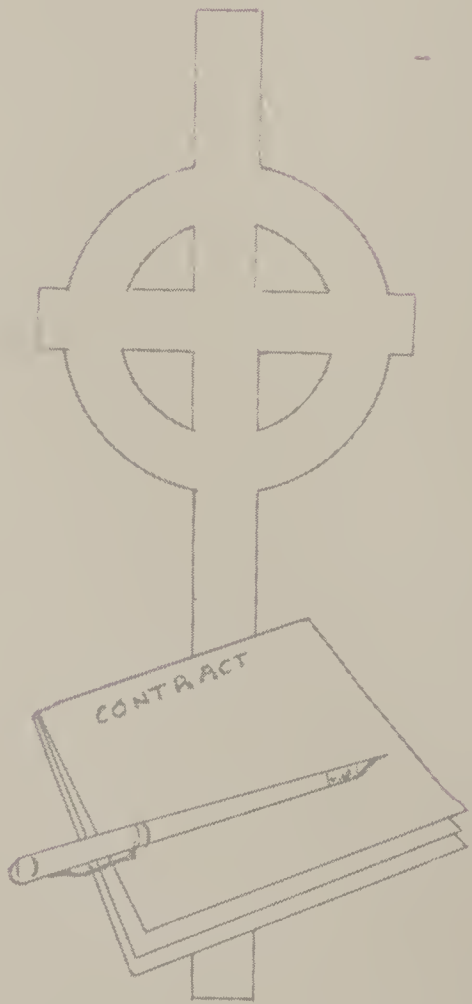

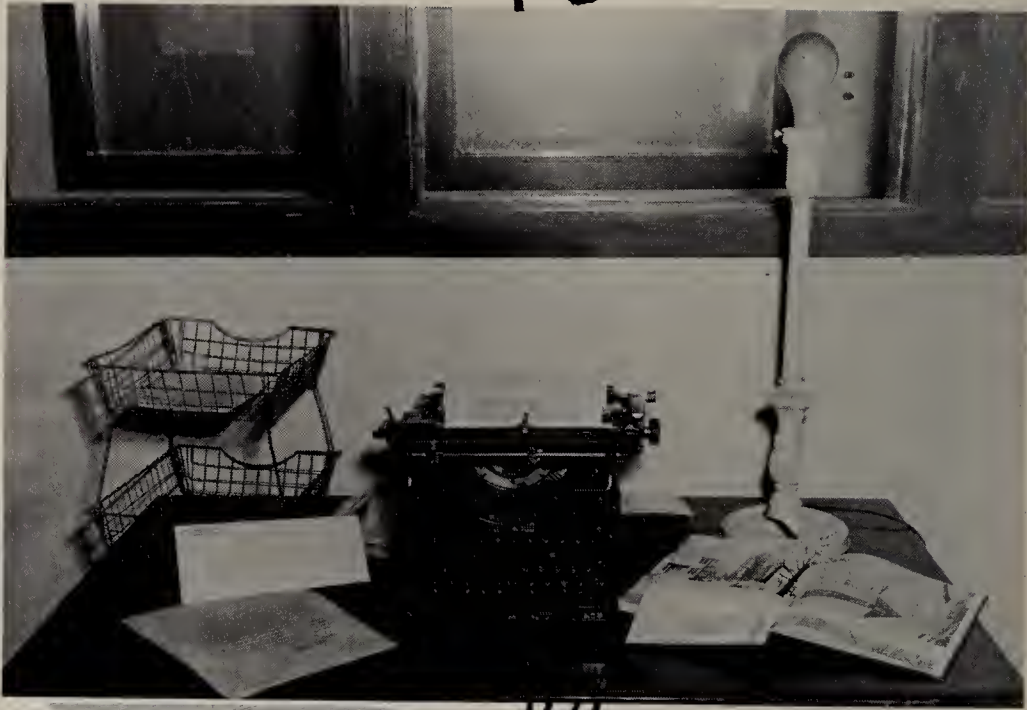

Members of the National Catholic Men's Honorary: Dr. Barton, R. Gasior, C. Robinson, C. Vietzen, R. Keller, R. Flynn, A. Stryck, T. Alter, J. Gulassa, Fr. Maziarz.

GOOD-BYE TO ST. JOE

A SHORT WORD . . .

Just as in any television presentation, there must be a sponsor, this particular production has not one, but many. These are your friends and ours who have helped to make this possible. They engage in many activities, some are commercial rivals, but all of them have gathered together to bring you Phase. And now a few short words from our sponsors. . . .
